

First Army Closing in on Cologne Stiff Jap Resistance Holds Up Advance on Iwo Jima

Nimitz Reports Slight Gain in Tough Fighting

Enemy Death Toll Climbs to 12,864 in 13 Day Campaign

By VERN HAUGLAND
UNITED STATES PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Guam, Monday, March 5. (P)—Stiffened Japanese resistance held American gains to local advances of fifty to 100 yards on Iwo Jima yesterday but several hundred more enemy troops were killed in a fanatical counterattack.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, announcing "small local advances" in his communique today, reported that 12,864 Japanese dead had been counted up to 6 p. m. Saturday—thirteen days of the fiercest fight of the Pacific war.

Toll 8,080 Higher
This toll was 8,080 higher than his count up to 6 p. m. last Monday, the eighth day of the battle. The Japanese counterattack was thrown against Maj. Gen. Keller E. Rockey's Fifth division on the northwest end of the crooked battle line across the upper third of Iwo.

This was "repulsed with the loss of several hundred men," the communique said, adding that hand-to-hand fighting was in progress on rough ground "naturally suited to defensive operations."

Maj. Gen. Clifton B. Cates Fourth Marines, on the east flank, overcame a strong center of resistance as they inched forward over rocky ground.

Nimitz made no mention of the progress of Maj. Gen. Graves B. Erskine's Third division, holding down the center of the battle line and showing the Japanese toward cliffs fringing the little island's north and northeast shoreline.

Seal Japs in Caves
In rear areas the marines continued sealing caves in which some fanatical defenders were taking refuge and from which they refused to emerge. Nevertheless an increasing number were surrendering, and the prisoner list now numbers forty-five Koreans and thirty-six Japanese.

Enemy resistance tightened in all sectors of the front as three Yank divisions gained from fifty to 100 yards in their drive to compress the Japanese toward the rocky northeast fringes of the strategic island only 750 miles from Tokyo.

Pocket Eliminated
A pocket of resistance in the sector of Maj. Gen. Clifton B. Cates Fourth Marines, on the southeastern end of the battle line, was eliminated, and an enemy counterattack against Maj. Gen. Keller E. Rockey's Fifth Marines was repulsed with the loss of several hundred enemy troops.

Naval guns covered the ground advances. American hospital planes continued to use the southern Iwo bomber field although it was under enemy artillery fire during the day.

Carrier planes bombed Chichi Jima in the Bonin Islands immediately north of Iwo while marine fighters and medium bombers swept Ponape in the Western Carolines and navy search planes bombed enemy targets in the Marshall Islands.

Vinson and WLB Closer Together

WASHINGTON, March 4. (P)—A break in the deadlock between the War Labor Board and Economic Stabilizer Fred M. Vinson over granting of "fringe" wage adjustments is expected momentarily.

The prospective settlement was disclosed today by a source in the know, but how soon it actually could come, Chairman William H. Davis of the WLB declined to predict.

Vinson said "the whole question still is under consideration," and that he did not care to comment further now on the reported solution.

The War Labor Board has submitted to Vinson an outline of standards for "limits" for the most frequently granted of these "fringe" demands.

Representatives of the Transport and General Workers Union and the National Amalgamated Stevedores and Dockers said the bulk of the strikers' doubtless would be on the job Monday and the rest would go back Tuesday. The union representatives recommended a return to work at a joint meeting today.

The British War Office was expected to call off an estimated 1,000 soldiers detailed over the weekend to handle top priority supplies for the western front.

While these troops took charge of loading vessels bound for the continent the strike spread to cold storage depots, and it was feared Britain's meat supply might be seriously affected. The ministry of food said it was not "unduly perturbed," however, as sufficient measures were being taken to meet public requirements.

The strike, described as unauthorized, started at the Royal Albert Dock March 1 when the men represented the moving of a but a distance of about seventy-five yards from outside the dock gates to just inside them. The men sign on for work at the hut.

Political Circles Buzzing:

O'Connor, Walsh and Beall Mentioned As Successors to Sen. Radcliffe

By WILLIAM O. VARN
BALTIMORE, March 4. (P)—Reports that United States Senator George L. Radcliffe (D-Md) was being considered for the post of federal judge administration, although without confirmation from official sources—served nonetheless the last week to set Maryland political circles buzzing with activity.

Radcliffe himself was not available for comment but the reports that he was among those discussed as successor to Jesse Jones, the Texan, had gained widespread recognition in Annapolis, Baltimore and Washington.

Opinions Differ
Some Maryland Democratic political leaders questioned minimized and discounted the likelihood that Radcliffe was being considered and one referred to the report as "bunk."

Others, however, holding high political offices and position, admitted they had "heard the reports," but would not elaborate.

The latter fact with its ramifications affecting high office holders gave birth to wide speculation as to a successor to Maryland's junior senator whose term expires after 1946 and who would have to stand for re-election next year. Members of the legislature said there had been discussion all last week of the matter and that some party leaders had been in a huddle.

O'Connor for Senate?
What position Governor O'Connor would take in event the Senate vacancy should materialize was a center of the speculation. One group said "talk is that the governor himself would go for the Senate seat," while others said it was "more likely he would finish his term and be a candidate to succeed himself in 1946 if he doesn't get a federal judgeship before then."

If such a vacancy should occur before the legislature ends its session, then the members of the General Assembly, under the constitution, would elect a governor if O'Connor should resign with the idea of obtaining the senatorial appointment.

But, there would be uncertainty as to the choice of the assembly governor with the contributing (Continued on Page 3, Col. 5)

Other Units Advance
As these armored formations virtually destroyed Germany's Pomeranian flank front, other units far to the east drove to within thirty miles south of the former Free City of Danzig, while in east Prussia the remnants of twenty Nazi divisions were hurled into a 275-square-mile Baltic pocket southwest of Königsberg and were being wiped out in hand-to-hand fighting and by powerful broadsides from Soviet artillery.

Overwhelming 600 localities, including ten major German strongholds, Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First White Russian army in a four-day advance reached the Pomeranian coast in the area of Kolberg, fifty-five miles east of the heavily-fortified German port of Swinemünde, while Marshal K. K. Rokossovsky's Second White Russian army also reached the coast and captured Königsberg, twenty-four miles east of Kolberg.

Stalin Announces Triumphs
Premier-Marshall Stalin, announcing these triumphs in two orders of the day as Moscow's victory cannon touched off another celebration last night in the Soviet capital.

The twin thrusts to the Baltic coast ripped through staggering German lines and doomed the chance of a Nazi flanking attack against the central forces of the Berlin-bound Red army.

Looking and double-bolting the door to an 8,280-square-mile area to the east, including Danzig territory, the Russians had isolated the elements of twenty more Nazi divisions in a sector larger than the state of Connecticut. Moscow dispatches said the bag of German troops was expected to be as large as in East Prussia. A total of more than 700 towns and villages were swept up by the two Russian armies in the latest German advances, Moscow's communique said.

Escape Just in Time
It was a glorious failure. They were driven back by flames from burning tar on the bridge roadway which had been ignited by grenades and which silhouetted them to enemy snipers. One patrol got back at daylight, only twenty minutes before the Nazis blew up the bridge, one of the chief highway links between Berlin and the Western Rhineland.

As soon as the commander of the Second armored division, Brig. Gen. Isaac D. White, heard the details of their feat, he rounded up the men and pinned silver stars on them and their commander, Col. Sidney R. Hinds, Nashville, Tenn., whose tanks and doughboys captured Uerdingen, a suburb of the German industrial city of Krefeld.

None of the men couldn't be located immediately, but fifteen of the young heroes stood at attention in a drizzling rain in a muddy German farmyard while White pinned the medals on them and told them the whole "hell on wheels" division was proud of them.

Tell About Exploit
Afterward, Capt. George L. Youngblood, 31, a former Charleston, N. C., civil engineer, told of their exploit while his men, still wearing their dirty battle clothing and weary from lack of sleep, sat stiffly uncomfortable on the edges of chairs in a German family's neat living room.

"We hoped to locate the wires leading to the dynamite charges on the bridge and keep them from blowing it," said Youngblood, who previously had been decorated for heroism for clearing a minefield under fire.

"We started out well after dark and finally got on the bridge, although small arms fire kept us down for a while. It was pretty black, the moon wasn't up yet, but there was a big fire on the other edge of the bridge."

Legion and VFW Want Radical Groups Probed

WASHINGTON, March 4. (P)—Anyone who in the past ten years advocated the violent overthrow of the American type of government should set a congressional grilling, the American Legion said today.

Paraded views were expressed by the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Representatives of both organizations wrote Rep. Mundt (S-Sd) at his request detailing the types of organizations they think should be investigated by the House committee on Un-American Activities.

Mundt, a member of the committee, wrote 100 prominent individuals and organizations recently seeking their definitions of Un-Americanism. The American Legion, in a statement from H. L. Chailleur, director of its Americanism commission, listed:

Those who have stood for the use of violence to destroy our form of government any time in the past ten years.

Groups which "prey upon racial and religious angles as a medium to build intolerance and hatred against blocs of American people."

So-called "native Fascist organizations."

Advocates of "social revolution."

Cave-in Loosens Tree Roots in Yard Of Eckhart Church

Cavity in Adjoining Yard Reveals Apparent Coal Mine; No Damage

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG, March 4.—A portion of the yard at the home of Mrs. Anna Brown, Eckhart, which adjoins the Eckhart Baptist church, sank several feet Saturday about 11:30 a. m., leaving a cavity at one place exposing what appears to be the coal mine beneath the surface.

In addition to the cave-in, the surface of other sections of the yard settled with cracks indicating the possibility that coal has been released from beneath a wider area.

The cave-in at the Brown residence is the second to occur recently in the vicinity of the church property, the first being about a week ago in the yard of a property owned by the Eckhart Realty Company, and occupied by Al Delaney.

After settling of the surface in the Brown and Delaney yards and the yard of the church has loosened the roots of several large trees, which, according to John R. Watson, member of the governing body of the church, will have to be removed.

The congregation, Watson stated, has secured permission from S. W. Duckworth, state forester, to cut down at least five trees to prevent their falling.

Services were held in the church Sunday morning as usual. Watson said no damage had been done so far to the structure as a result of the mine falls around the building, he added that the trees would be removed at the expense of the congregation to prevent further damage.

Garrett County Sends Selectees To Baltimore

Thirty Men Are Ordered to Report for Pre-induction Examinations

By GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND, Mar. 3.—Thirty selectees have been ordered to report to the local selective service board Sunday night, March 11, to be sent to Baltimore for the pre-induction physical examination. It was announced by H. L. Jones, chief clerk.

Those accepted for service will be subject to call after twenty-one days from date of acceptance.

Those ordered to report include James Solomon Nelson, Vindex; Arthur Edgar Rhodes, Jr.; Swanton; Harry Reid King, Oakland; Julius Hansel Otto, Grantsville; Robert Daniel Pennell, Vindex; Ernest Coddington, Friendsville; Marshall Colton, Stewart; Kitzmiller; Lee McCrobie, Vindex; George Adam Ward, Bloomington; Wolford Richard Perando, Shallowater; George Glenn Rexrode, Swanton; Frank Kovak, Oakland; Leo Daniel Wolfe, Oakland; Lawrence M. Hanlin, Shallowater.

Lyle Harrison Sharpless, Vindex; Elmer Charles McCrobie, Deer Park; John Walter Bateman, Swanton; Robert L. Hinebaugh, Friendsville; Clinton Ray Bowman, McHenry; Warren E. Lemasters, Davis, W. Va.; Bryan Eugene Sines, Friendsville; Dale L. Schrock, Gorman, W. Va.; Robert S. Fazenbaugh, Westernport; Howard F. Broadwater, Lanconing; Willie Wrightsman, Deer Park; Theodore Harold House, Grantsville; Milford Alden Friend, Deer Park; Richey James Kahl, Accident; Seymon Adam Roy, Wilson, W. Va.; William A. Jones, Kempton, W. Va.

18 Men Accepted

Eighteen men who had previously been accepted for general military service, have been ordered to report to the local draft board Sunday night, March 11, to be sent to Baltimore for induction, according to H. L. Jones, chief clerk. Upon reporting they will be assigned to training either with the army or navy.

The list includes Paul Dale Hendrick, Grantsville; Joseph Henry Welch, Mr. Lake Park; George Gidion Durst, Grantsville; Cheston H. Browning, Jr., Oakland; Harold Audra Kinney, Shallowater; Woodrow Ross Rexrode, Swanton; Carlus Rexrode, Baker, Crallin; Clyde Henry Krause, Jennings; Russell Walter Keller, Kitzmiller; Franklin S. Foster Homes Needed

An urgent need for foster homes where children may be placed whose parents are absent, ill, or unable to care for their children in their own homes, is expressed by Francis J. Connolly, executive secretary of the Garrett County Welfare Board.

The need is particularly acute, he declares, for homes willing to take in children for a temporary period while the child's situation is being studied and a permanent plan made which will be best suited to meet the individual child's needs.

He added there was also a grave need for more new foster homes willing to take in temporary period for long time care. He pointed out that a state law required all foster homes to be licensed by the board before they can be used, and that the board expects all foster parents to be willing to work closely with the agency in supervision.

Board is paid for all children unless the plan is worked out whereby a child can earn his or her own board.

Connolly said he or a representative of the board would be happy to explain in detail the foster care program to those interested. Offices are maintained in the First National Bank building, Oakland.

Will Elect Officers

At the Oakland municipal election on Monday, March 12, voters will elect three councilmen and a treasurer, the councilmen to serve for a term of two years, the treasurer to serve one year. No mayor is to be elected as the present incumbent, Lawrence M. Fraley, has another year to serve.

Retiring councilmen are Delbert Davis, Dr. E. I. Baumgartner and Prentice DeBerry. Richard L. Davis is retiring as councilman.

According to present laws, it is necessary for candidates to file their candidacy with the city clerk ten days prior to the election. The deadline was Friday evening, and Arthur Lawton, clerk, said that only Dr. Baumgartner and Prentice DeBerry had filed for re-election as councilmen, and Richard L. Davis as treasurer. Lawton said the third councilmen, would have to be determined by a write-in vote upon the ballot.

Merle E. Swartzentruber, a staff sergeant for company F, Eighteenth infantry, in the European area, received a Bronze Star medal recently for meritorious action in France last August.

Sgt. Swartzentruber is a son of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Swartzentruber, of Gortner, south of Oakland. He is a graduate of Oakland high school. He enlisted from Canton, Ohio, where he was employed, and has been overseas since March, 1942. He was in Sicily, France and at present is in Germany with the First Army.

Gilchrist Will Speak

After an interlude of one week, the Institute of International Understanding, sponsored by the Rotary club, will get under way again next Tuesday evening, in the high school auditorium when Archibald Gilchrist, of New York City, will speak on Australia, New Zealand and the islands of the South Pacific.

Two subjects pertaining to China and the North American continent, have already been discussed. The one on March 13, the final talk of the series, will be on Russia.

The address on Tuesday will be followed by an open forum discussion, and the speaker will also address the high school students in the afternoon. A similar meeting will be held at Grantsville, on Wednesday.

O'Connor, Walsh

doubt that a man elected to that office would then name O'Connor to the Senate.

Lindsay May Succeed O'Connor

If there should be a Senate vacancy and O'Connor did not act in caucus of the General Assembly he might of someone else, then, at immediately to fill the post by appointment.

Those following the latter reasoning said that the way would be open then, if O'Connor resigned, making Lindsay help to the governorship of the possible turn of political events mentioned at the same time that a pending bill to create a lieutenant governor elected by the people would receive serious consideration by the Assembly.

Possibilities Named

If O'Connor decided to remain at the helm of the State government, among those mentioned as possibilities for appointment by him to the Senate were: Rep. Lansdale G. Sasser (D-Md. 5th), now serving his fourth term in the House; William Curran, Baltimore Democratic leader; H. Street, Baltimore, D-Md. 2nd, now serving his second term in the House; William Preston Lane, Jr., Democratic national committeeman from Maryland and former state attorney general; and Thomas D'Alessandro (D-Md. 3rd), dean of the state's House delegation but whose friends said they still preferred to see him in city hall as mayor of Baltimore.

D'Alessandro announced for the majority in 1942 in the Democratic primary, but withdrew and subsequently Howard W. Jackson, seeking re-election, was beaten by Theodore R. McKeldin, the Republican nominee.

On the other side of the rifle discussions, those who believed O'Connor aspired to the Senate as a next political step, considered these men among strong gubernatorial possibilities if elected to that office were left in the hands of the General Assembly.

Walsh Given Chance

Lindsay, Sasser, Lane, Baldwin, State Treasurer Hooper Miles, State Comptroller Millard Tawes, and Attorney General William C. Walsh, several said Sasser would be a very strong entry.

Linked with the Democratic discussions, which leaders made plain were "boiling already with a view to the 1946 primary," was a statement also in Republican ranks there would be a stern scrap over leadership with Rep. J. Glenn Beall (R-Md. 6th) making a bid for the party nomination for governor or United States Senator in 1946. Beall now is serving his second term in the House.

Beall Considered

Friends of Beall said he "would like to have the honor of either post and it isn't certain yet which," and that at any rate he likely would draw support "from a group of Republicans who are opposed to the faction headed by Mayor McKeldin and Galt."

Those discussing the post-brewing in the Republican ranks said that McKeldin has alienated some former supporters within his party since becoming mayor and there likely will be a challenge to the current leadership. Beall's political stature is known, has increased since his successful race for re-election to the House from the Sixth district last fall.

The name of Former Representative William P. Cole, Democrat who left his seat from Maryland's Second district to become a United States customs agent in New York, also was mentioned as likely appointee for a federal judgeship in event of a vacancy.

All of this talk concerning top state positions was set off by the unconfirmed reports concerning the resignation of Justice J. H. L. United States Senator should remain in his seat, it was admitted, if concerned with the 1946 races. There was possibility, it was learned, that a party caucus of leaders may be called in the near future to discuss the lineup for 1946.

Talk of the possibility of federal judgeships for O'Connor or Cole, or both, hinged on the fact that Judge Morris A. Soper of the United States Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals, and Federal Judge W. Calvin Chesnut have passed the age of seventy and would retire in the near future.

At any rate, there was plenty of backstage smoke even though fire had not appeared.

Committee Is Appointed

Miss Mary Frances Peruso, Miss Evelyn Topper, Miss Solana Massi, Miss Virginia Bruce Boyer and Mrs. T. A. Curry all of whom have been appointed as a committee to help organize a recruiting campaign for women as medical technicians in the women's army corps, Miss Lilla Schlansky, chairman, announced today.

Stores Are Checked

Harry Dibacco, chairman of the Tucker County War Price and Rationing Board, announces that forty-three stores in this county were checked in February by the price plan assistants and that all the stores but one were in accordance with price regulations.

Foreman Transferred

H. F. Petty, foreman for the Ohio Oil Company and stationed in Davis for the past twenty-three months has been transferred back to Ohio. The vacancy will be filled in the near future in Davis. The one well being drilled in Canaan Valley is down to a depth of 3,000 feet and the equipment is being used for the drilling.

War Controls Cannot Be Ended Suddenly

SOME FEARS have been expressed about undue extension of price controls and rationing into the post-war period. In a good many respects these fears are grounded in the light of the emergency measures taken during the war. It is true that the rule of reason should apply and the Congress should see to it that the need for extended controls is not utilized for the purpose of carrying out a program of collectivization on which so much effort has already been exerted.

It is likely that price controls and regulations will have to be utilized to considerable degree in the period of transition from war to peace production. They cannot safely be stopped suddenly when the war ends because the conditions which they check will obtain then and for some time afterward.

Ray Chamberlain, executive vice president of the National Automobile Dealers' Association, senses that situation and says the end of the war will not mean the end of automobile rationing and price control. The demand for cars, he points out, will so far exceed the supply that the government will be compelled to continue these measures for some time after peace comes.

There are approximately 24,000,000 passenger automobiles on the streets and highways of the United States at this time," he says. "Broadly speaking, every one of these cars will represent a replacement demand. It will take the manufacturers more than five years, in round numbers, to supply the demand alone. And in the meantime, many new buyers will come into the market, to say nothing of the enormous number of returning soldiers who will want cars and who will stand at the top of the priority list." It may be noted that essential trucks will also necessarily stand high in the priority list.

That prediction serves as another reminder, which Chamberlain proffers, that every present-day car owner must do his utmost to keep his machine in the best possible mechanical condition, since it will have to last a long time even under the most favorable circumstances.

All Should Take Part In the Job Program

SPEAKING at a soldiers' forum in England, James B. Carey, secretary-treasurer of the CIO, declared that the full employment program for the postwar period, to which much thought has been given in this country and on which opinions are sharply divided, should be "written by the common people and not by some investment bankers in New York."

Carey is right about that but only partly so. He doesn't go far enough. The program should be written by the whole people. It shouldn't be left in the keeping of any particular segment of them. If the investment bankers, or the industrialists, have any sound provisions in mind resulting from the fruits of their experience, the people should have due advantage of them. The same may be said of any other group. It will not matter how the program is written so long as it preserves individual rights and will work.

New Nazi Policy Bearer of Hope

ONE of the features of recent developments in the war in Europe has been the willingness of German military commentators to tell the truth about enemy operations to the German people. And the truth of late has been uniformly unpleasant to German ears.

A case in point is what Martin Hallensleben, DNB's top military expert, had to say about the big push on the western front and its implications for Germany.

The aim of the gigantic offensive," Hallensleben said, "is to knock out Germany and thereby end this war. The Allied high command has, to all intents and purposes, the same intentions as the Russian high command—break through, split up, destroy. The battle in Europe in the next few weeks will reach proportions never before witnessed. That's the straight talk, for a Nazi. It paints the picture without overtones of propaganda—or at least propaganda as the Nazis formerly dish it out. But it is directly in line with the present Nazi policy of serving the German people for the most desperate kind of resistance by telling them the full extent of their peril.

eventual success. The Germans know the odds, but the hope of success has shrunk to the vanishing point.

Some Suggestions On Tree-Cutting

RURAL PEOPLE of this wooded section of the state may well heed some suggestions about cutting supplies of fuel wood or wood for sale given in a bulletin from College Park by Henry W. Dengler, extension forester at the state university.

The suggestions are designed to save labor, enhance returns and further conservation.

Dengler advises that only trees measuring eight inches or more in diameter at four and a half feet from the ground should be cut. The cutting of smaller trees, he says, is inefficient because of the larger number of trees required to make a cord. Experiments have indicated that it takes forty-eight trees of four-inch diameter to make a cord; 9.3 trees of eight-inch diameter; 3.4 trees of twelve-inch diameter; and 1.4 trees of eighteen-inch diameter.

Woodland owners are cautioned against cutting eighteen-inch trees for firewood if these are suitable for saw or veneer logs, which ordinarily bring a higher labor return. It is advisable, Dengler says, to confine fuel wood cuttings to dead, dying, poorly-formed, diseased, unthrifty and poor lumber-producing trees.

The removal of such trees will improve the woodland by allowing more room for the better trees to develop.

More than half a million cords of wood are consumed annually in Maryland, and the severe shortage of farm labor together with the prevailing strong demand for wood increase the necessity for getting the job of wood-cutting done as economically as possible. The conservation aspect, too, is quite important.

Not Peasants but Sons of Free Men

ONE of the big Eastern newspapers recently carried a dispatch from liberated France that caused one to ponder. It told of a little French girl who, as spokesman, recited these words of gratitude for a shipment of clothing from America:

"The children of Paris thank the peasants of the Corn Belt who sewed up these clothes for us."

"Peasants," indeed! Surely the children of the revived France should be told and taught, commencing just about now, that the GI's who fought and died for their liberation did so because they were the sons or free men—that the farmers of the Corn Belt—"up to this writing, at least, never even heard such a word as 'peasant'."

What's more, they are determined never to hear it either—or anything that it implies!

Goering's boast at the beginning of the war that no bombs would ever fall on Germany seems to call for an explanation that conditions have changed.

The Browser's Bookshelf

By MARSHALL MASLIN
For three times the Modern Library has just added to its list a history of these United States that seems to the Browser just about perfect. It is "A Short History of the United States" by Allan Nevins and Henry Steele Commager, first published in 1942, and even though there will be some who will say that in the last half the authors lean somewhat toward the left of center in a judicious appraisal of events—it is a lively and stimulating account of a very complicated situation.

The authors say that they wrote this history for the layman, not for scholars, and that it does not pretend to embody any original research or attempt to advance any new interpretations. However, even they "have not conceived American history to be primarily political or economic or as a series of problems," their history believes that statement. As they tell the story of the American people they do tend toward the economic interpretation and it is a long series of fascinating problems.

After last week's somewhat acerbic comments on Edna Ferber's "Great Son" appeared in the column, a lady said to the Browser: "But don't you LIKE Edna Ferber's books?" Well, if you must know—the Browser does not. She skirts over the surface too much and while her books sometimes divert the Browser they never divert him from the feeling that there's much more to her subjects than she's telling.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Appointment of a New Labor Secretary Is Being Urged by Roosevelt Advisers

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt got back from his notable achievements at Yalta to find serious problems awaiting him at home. Particularly on the labor front. Some of his advisers felt, however, that these problems, especially the coal crisis, could have been averted by beginning to prepare for it earlier and by appointing a new secretary of labor.

The president left for Yalta almost immediately after his inauguration. And, up until a day or two before his inauguration, he had not made up his mind what to do about appointing a new secretary of labor. In the end, he did nothing and Miss Perkins continued, despite her very firm desire to resign.

Meanwhile various moves could have been made to head off the coal crisis. One of them, discussed in the background but never brought forward, is an annual wage for miners. If the miners knew they would be able to work all the year around, especially in peace time when they have been laid off for about one-third of the time, they might forego wage increases now.

False Intelligence
Count Sforza came into the picture when, as head of the Italian War Crimes Commission, he brought charges against both Gen. Roatta and Carboni. As is customary in Italy, he called them for a pre-trial examination. There it leaked out for the first time that the British had been depending on these two Fascist criminals for their secret intelligence, and also the amazing fact that they had been supplying information both to the Germans and to the British at the same time.

This leak infuriated Churchill. The British Secret Service is one of his personal pets. To have it exposed by Count Sforza means that Sforza's future, as far as Churchill was concerned, was finished.

Note—When the Allies planned the landing at Salerno Beach, south of Naples, they had information to the effect that only one German skeletalized division was in Naples. After they got on the high seas, however, they learned that this intelligence was wrong and that three German divisions were in and around Naples. As a result, United States transports had to mark time on the high seas while more troops were brought up. When they finally landed, German divisions were on the high bluff overlooking the Salerno beachhead, and for a while it was nip and tuck whether we would be able to hold the beach.

Federal Service Lesson Is Seen In Jones Case
By DAVID LAWRENCE
WASHINGTON, March 3 — Why does anybody enter the government service or rather why should anybody do so?

Take the case of Jesse Jones. He came here thirteen years ago. He was summoned at a time of national emergency to become a director, and then head of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, though a Democrat, he was appointed by a Republican president.

When President Roosevelt took office, he leaned heavily on Jesse Jones especially during the trying days of the bank holiday of 1933 and its aftermath. Congress, which means members of both parties, almost unanimously leaned on Jesse Jones. They trusted him with vast lending powers—no other man has been given such authority. He worked day and night and gave of his energies unselfishly through all these years.

The time came when the president wanted Jesse Jones in the cabinet, and Congress did an unprecedented thing of passing a joint resolution so that he could serve both as secretary of commerce and as federal loan administrator.

Jesse Jones has been a loyal friend of the president and a staunch Democrat. No man in the cabinet has contributed as much to Democratic party campaign funds and, indeed, it has been said that he has contributed in the last thirteen years more funds than all the other cabinet members put together. In the last campaign he and his close friends were said to have given about $50,000.

When it came to speech-making, Jesse Jones wrote a campaign address which the president used as the main part of his famous Chicago speech, and this was heralded as the best of his whole campaign. In that speech Mr. Roosevelt went further toward winning over the business men's vote than in any previous utterance. In fact, he committed himself to private enterprise as he had never before. Republican votes favorable to the Roosevelt foreign policy but apprehensive on domestic policy were thus won over.

Help Repeatedly Sought
Whenever the president wanted help on Capitol Hill, especially with the Texas delegation, among which were some important committee chairmen in both houses, he sent for Jesse Jones. The majority of one vote in the Senate which put over the "death sentence" on public utility holding companies is said to have been attributable to Jesse Jones's thumbs-down. It was long known that Sforza was anti-monarchy and opposed Churchill's friend, King Victor Emmanuel; but it has only now been learned how Sforza threw a monkey-wrench into some of the British intelligence operations in Italy.

When the Allies first landed in Italy, the British had practically no intelligence inside the country. Therefore, they depended upon the BIM (Secret Italian Military Intelligence) and its commanding officer, Gen. Roatta.

Gen. Roatta, however, was close to Field Marshal Badoglio and had been high up in Fascist circles. Therefore, after the Allies took Rome, the Yugoslav and the Greek governments both asked for his trial as a war criminal. The British then replaced him with Gen. Carboni, but he also turned out to be a war criminal last, and was replaced by Col. Agrigoglio.

influence. Again and again Jesse Jones did a job at the capitol or took the rap publicly for something the president had agreed to or had advised but which it wasn't politic to be disclosed. In every sense Jesse Jones was a loyal friend and a loyal colleague of President Roosevelt.

Then out of a clear sky, at inauguration time, Mr. Roosevelt wrote Jesse Jones a letter telling him that Henry Wallace had made some speeches in the campaign and wanted the job of secretary of commerce, which included the post of federal loan administrator. Mr. Roosevelt made no bones about it—he was offering a political reward to Henry Wallace. There is no doubt that the president violated the spirit of the statute which forbids the promise of public office as a reward for political activities.

Allegany-Somerset Battle Here

Tonight Opens Week's Program

Campers Seek Revenge for 30-23 Loss to Eagles; West Virginia Sectionals Carded

The Allegany High Campers, defeated 41-33 by the LaSalle High Explorers last Friday, will start and finish this week's city scholastic basketball program, which also includes the long-awaited return meeting of the LaSalle and Keyser high schools at Keyser, W. Va., tomorrow night.

Coach "Bill" Bowers' West Siders will bring their home season to an end tonight at 8 o'clock, tangling with A. J. Kerin's Somerset (Pa.) High Eagles in a return clash. The game was originally scheduled early in the campaign but postponed.

Friday and Saturday, the Alleganyans will be on the road. After colliding with the Westmont-Upper Yoder Hilltoppers in a return scrap at Johnstown, Pa., the Blue and White will ring down the curtain by taking on the Bedford High Bison at Bedford, Pa.

LaSalle, with only Keyser and the Romney High Pioneers standing between them and an undefeated season, will close Wednesday evening when they encounter Romney on the latter's floor.

Pirate Cagers Enter

Pittsburgh Tourney

An invitation to compete in a basketball tournament opening April 7 at Pittsburgh has been accepted by the Pirates of the Midget League. It was announced last night by Tommy Ford, coach of the local combination.

The Pirates received the invitation from Al Stone, tourney director and director of physical education at the Pittsburgh YMHA, sponsor of the tournament.

The event, to be staged on successive weekends, will consist of four divisions: for boys under 14 years of age, under 16, under 18 and unlimited.

Coach Ford said that the Pirates will attempt to win two titles—the junior crown for cagers under 16 and the senior diadem for boys under 18. The Buc squad will be divided into two clubs, Ford added.

Sam Snead Wins

Virginian Has 66 on Final Round; Hamilton Second with 270

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 4 (AP)—Sam Snead, the belting pro from the Blue Ridge mountains of Virginia, slammed out a six under par 66 for a 266 total today to annex the seventy-two-hole $5,000 Jacksonville open golf championship.

It was his sixth victory of the winter circuit and enriched his earnings by $1,000.

In second place was Bob Hamilton, of Chicago, National PGA champion, who carded 67 today for a total of 270.

Next in line, in a three-way tie for third place, were Ky Lafoon, of Chicago, with 72 today and a 274 total; Bruce Coltart, of Absecon, N. J., with 69 and 274, and Sam Byrd, of Detroit, who racked up 68 today for the same total.

Following them were Byron Nelson, of Toledo, Ohio, and Harold (Jug) McSpaden, of Sanford, Me., with 75, and Amateur Fred Haas, of New Orleans, with 77.

It was Slammin' Sammy all the way during the final round. McSpaden, the hard luck player of the winter golf tour who tied with the Virginian at 200 yesterday, didn't have a chance.

Snead opened the round by tugging a birdie three on the 340-yard first hole. In contrast, the Jug had a poor drive off the first tee, hooked a second off the green and required three to get down for a bogie five.

McSpaden then really went to pieces for a few holes, winding up the nine with a 40. He steadied down somewhat on the back nine, carding 35.

Snead admittedly hit more bad shots today than the other three rounds combined, but he made some remarkable recoveries and maintained the consistent pace that marked his early play.

Bob Hamilton, second place victor, won acclaim of the touring press and gallery alike. He shot two sizzling opening rounds only to falter with a 71 yesterday.

Today, however, he bounced back with a 67 to regain his easy swinging form.

Barring another upset like Saturday's clash between Calvary Methodist and St. John's, won 34-22 by the latter, the setup for the Central YMCA Sunday School Basketball League playoff series will be completed Saturday when the regular season draws to a close.

While Calvary Methodist was going down for the first time this season, St. Paul's Lutheran, trimmed Episcopal 30-24 to surge into the top rung, Calvary, St. Paul's and St. John's are assured of berths in the playoff while First Presbyterian, 28-20 victor over First Methodist, is favored to defeat Trinity on Saturday and annex fourth place.

Should Presbyterian lose to Trinity and First Baptist, 23-4 winner over United Brethren, turn back St. Mark's, a tie for fourth would result, necessitating a playoff engagement. The playoff series will start Saturday, March 17, and end the following Saturday.

In other games last Saturday, Grace Methodist routed Trinity 71-6, Grace Baptist walloped Davis Memorial 56-33 and St. Luke's won over St. Mark's 24-20.

St. Paul's has completed its season and is assured of at least a berth for first. Calvary is favored to top Davis Memorial in its finale this week and bring about a deadlock for first place in the final standing. Then, Calvary would be rated the No. team in the playoff as it topped St. Paul's during the regular season.

The remainder of Saturday's program is Centre Street vs. St. Luke's Episcopal vs. First Methodist, United Brethren vs. Grace Baptist and Grace Methodist vs. St. John's.

Two league records for the season were broken Saturday—Grace Methodist's seventy-six points against Trinity and Charley Lattimer's fifty-four points registered for the Grace outfit.

The Revenuers and South End Markets continued their close race for first place in the Midget Basketball League's final standing by winning games yesterday afternoon on the SS. Peter and Paul court to remain separated by a single game.

The Revenuers, with Bob Mattingly and Don Blaul sharing twenty-four points, defeated the Port Hill Police Boys' Club, 41-21, and the South Enders whipped the Frostburg Hillbillies, 30-12. In the other games, the Pirates took over undisputed possession of third place by downing the Allegany Police Boys' Club, 22-14, and the Diplomats polished off the Roeder Big Five, 27-20.

The Revenuers led 8-3, 18-8 and 29-16 at the quarters. Francis Richards made four of the Port Hill PBC's nine field goals.

The Markets, with Al Sidaway marking up eleven tallies, led Frostburg 9-5, 15-6 and 27-7 at the quarters. The Hillbillies were limited to four fielders with no player getting more than one.

The Pirates were sparked by Seefeld's eleven markers while Bob Mace accounted for half of the Allegany PBC's four doubleheaders.

Britton Shaffer, with thirteen points, and Vic Auvil, with ten, led the Diplomats attack. The Big Five behind 7-2 at the quarter, went in the second period for an 8-7 edge at the half. After three rounds the score was tied 20-20. Jimmy Young meshed three of the Roeder-men's six field goals. The lineups:

NCAA and Garden Tourneys Will Wind Up College Season

NEW YORK, March 4 (AP)—With the exception of a few scattered games and the NCAA and Madison Square Garden postseason tournaments, the 1945 college basketball season was over today.

Army's West Point Cadets featured the last outstanding Saturday of the season by beating Navy, 50 to 48, at Annapolis to win the mythical eastern championship.

The Cadets, beaten only by Pennsylvania in the campaign's major upset, finished with fourteen victories in fifteen games and a record of thirty triumphs in their last thirty-one starts.

The Cadets thus joined Iowa, Pennsylvania, UCLA, Washington State, Oregon, Iowa State, Utah, Rice, North Carolina, Kentucky, American university, New Mexico, Akron and the Oklahoma Aggies as winners of the various sectional titles.

This is how the races ended: Eastern (mythical) . . . Army Eastern intercollegiate . . . Penn Western Conference . . . Iowa Pacific coast (Southern) . . . UCLA Pacific coast (Northern) . . . Washington State and Oregon tied Big Six . . . Iowa State Big Seven . . . Utah Southwest . . . Rice Southern . . . North Carolina Ohio Conference . . . Akron Mason-Dixon . . . American U. Southwest border (unofficial) . . . Missouri Valley (unofficial) . . . New Mexico

Okla. Aggies

Iowa delighted a record crowd of 14,400 at Iowa City by winning its first undisputed Western Conference title with a 43 to 37 victory over Illinois. The Hawkeyes thus finished the season with seventeen wins in eighteen starts and averaged their only defeat.

Kentucky nipped Tennessee, 39 to 35, to capture the Southeastern Conference championship for the seventh time in the last ten years.

One of the most torrid races in the history of the Pacific coast Northern division ended in a first place tie between Washington State and Oregon. The Staters beat Idaho, 49-30, while Oregon smacked Oregon State, 47-38. Previously Washington State, Oregon and Oregon State had been in a triple tie, Washington State and Oregon probably will meet this week in a best two-of-three game playoff for the title and the right to compete in the NCAA eliminations at Kansas City.

Arkansas, Oklahoma Aggies and Utah already have accepted invitations to compete in the Kansas City tournament, but the makeup of the Eastern NCAA play at Madison Square Garden is a matter of speculation.

Although upset by Connecticut, 67-59, last night, Rhode Island State still is under consideration for the Eastern NCAA along with New York University, City College of New York, Iowa, Kentucky and several others.

Three of the eight berths in the National invitation tourney at Madison Square Garden have been filled with acceptances from Tennessee, Muhlenberg and St. John's, of Brooklyn, DePaul, Akron and Bowling Green are among other teams under consideration. Kentucky, NYU, CONY and Rhode Island may have their choice of either the Garden or NCAA play.

Haegg To Compete

In Columbian Mile Saturday Night

NEW YORK, March 4 (AP)—Gunder (The Log) Haegg finished last in the Louis Zamperini mile at the IC-4A indoor track games but he was the only disappointed person in Madison Square Garden after Saturday night's race.

For seven laps the Swede, less than fifty hours off a storm-tossed freighter that took twenty-three days to cross the ocean, was in command but on the eighth journey around the plank saucer his spark went out faster than a cabaret candle at midnight.

With a shave and a brief job as his only conditioning since his arrival Thursday night, Haegg had enough power to set the pace through a 63.3 first quarter and to reach the half mile post in 2:10, still a stride in front.

By the time the five runners reached the three-quarter mark, Haegg had begun to tire and from there on it was a four-man battle with Jim Rafferty, unbeaten this season, inching ahead of Forrest Elaw in 4:16.4. Haegg was clocked in 4:31.

The Swede swiftness, unbeaten in eight races at various distances in this country during 1943, drew a tremendous ovation as he entered the arena and got another big hand when he finished.

"I felt tired all the way. The board hurt my feet but I'll run next Saturday night," said Haegg.

"That race is the Columbian mile, feature of the Knights of Columbus games, which was won last year by the Rev. Gil Dadds in 4:07.3, one-tenth of a second below the then accepted world indoor record."

While Haegg pleased everyone but himself with his same effort, his traveling companion, Haakon Lidman, captured a sixty-yard high hurdle exhibition and was third in a fifty-yard event after leading over the first two barriers.

In the IC-4A games proper, Army and Navy made the affair a duel meet. The Cadets piled up seventy-three and one-half, wiping out New York university's previous high of forty-eight, with the Middies grabbing fifty-five and one-half tallies.

Between the two, the service schools garnered every individual title except the two-mile run, which went to Ormand Osterburg, of NYU, and the high jump, which was shared by Paul Robinson, Jr., of Cornell, and Joe Conley, of Dartmouth.

Perhaps the service school domination was best shown in the pole vault where five athletes—four cadets and one midshipman—divided the top honors at the ordinary height of twelve feet.

Pvt. Cantanese Takes Golden Glove Title

Pvt. James Cantanese, who appeared in a number of amateur ring shows in this district before entering the service, today is the proud possessor of a miniature golden glove, symbol of his winning the 135-pound title in the second annual North Florida Golden Glove tournament held recently in Jacksonville, Fla.

Cpt. Cantanese, a member of the Camp Gordon Johnston, Fla., Golden Glove team, won the title with a one-round technical knockout of Bill Auton, of the Jacksonville Athletic Club, and became eligible to participate in the tournament of champions at Madison Square Garden, New York, on March 12.

The local mittman is with the One-Hundred and Twelfth training company, harbor craft training regiment at Camp Gordon Johnston, the only service forces training center in the country engaged in amphibious operations.

Norma Marie Ryan Joins Women Marines

Miss Norma Marie Ryan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Ryan, 27 Elder street, was sworn into the women's reserve of the marine corps February 26, and is now taking her indoctrination training at Camp Lejeune, N. C. according to a recent release from marine corps procurement headquarters, Washington, D. C.

A graduate of Port Hill high school in 1940, Pvt. Ryan was employed by the Cumberland and Allegany Gas Company before her enlistment. She is the first Cumberland girl to be recruited directly into the marine women's reserve, as she enlisted during the marine recruiting campaign held here last month.

With Robert Casadesu, as guest pianist, the Don Voorhees concert on NBC at 9 is to have as a feature Ravel's "Concerto for the Left Hand Alone." The composition originally was written for a concert pianist who had lost his hand in the First World War. On hand for information please of NBC at 9:30 will be Waverly Root, war correspondent and author, and Erich Leinsdorf, opera conductor.

Fighting in Open Country Appreciated by Soldier

Cpl. Edison Lohr, son of Mrs. Chester Lohr, Zihlman, appreciates a campaign "in civilized country," according to a news release.

A veteran of two jungle campaigns, one of which he spent hacking his way through underbrush on Leyte, Cpl. Lohr participated in the attack on Manila, in which the Americans were able to travel over concrete highways and improved roads.

"It was a pleasure to get the Japs out into the open at last," he said.

Will Hold Meeting

Wahaba Temple No. 237, Dramatic Order of Knights of Khorassan, will hold a special meeting at 8 p. m. Tuesday at the Knights of Malta hall to make plans for the spring ceremonial and initiation, it was announced yesterday.

Joseph C. Wenrich, royal viceroy, will preside. Refreshments will be served after the meeting by the social committee, which includes J. Walter McKee, chairman, and Arthur Twigg and Herbert Sarver.

Memorial
In memory of Margaret Bell Peagles, who died March 3, 1945.

Oh how we miss you dear Mother,
You who know God calls his own.
And tonight when we are weeping,
You are singing around the throne.

You shall always be remembered,
In this weary world of strife,
And you shall never be forgotten
As long as God gives us life.

Sadly missed by her daughter,
MRS. JOSEPHINE SHANKS and GRANDSON, BILL FRAGLES.

In loving memory of our husband and father, Frank Delucia, who died four years ago, March 5, 1941.

Your gentle face and patient smile
That loved us well and true,
You had a kindly word for each
And tried to help us all.

The voice is mute and stilled the heart,
As though the trial part
From one so good as you.

You are not forgotten, loved one,
Nor will you ever be,
As long as life and memory last,
We will remember thee.

Sadly missed by
WIFE AND CHILDREN.

Eagles Can Assist In Securing Peace, Judge Capper Says

Jurist Is Chief Speaker at Memorial Service Held by Local Aerie

Praising the fraternal order of eagles for its contribution toward maintaining the safety and welfare of the nation, Associate Judge Walter C. Capper said yesterday that the organization can play an important part in establishing world peace after the war.

Judge Capper addressed 400 persons at a memorial service in honor of the twenty-three members of Cumberland Aerie No. 245 who died in the past year. The service was held at 2 p. m. in the Eagles hall on North Mechanic street.

"Some method must be devised to end all wars," Judge Capper said. "Machinery must be provided, with ample power and authority to enforce their orders and decrees without resorting to appeasement in any form, and our organization can play a great part in the establishment of such a plan."

Another contribution which the Eagles can make is to maintain our constitutional form of government, the speaker declared. Recalling that "liberty" is one of the four cardinal principles of the organization, Judge Capper said that the spread of enemy propaganda directed toward the destruction of the American way of living.

Three of the twenty-three members honored yesterday were servicemen who were killed in action. Sgt. Charles H. Hensel was killed in France July 16; Pfc. Garrett E. Kelley was killed in France July 10, and Pfc. Earl E. Sarver was killed in France December 15.

"Nothing we can say here can fully express our gratitude to them or their families for the supreme sacrifice they have made," Judge Capper said. "We can only pause in deference and humility and trust that their sacrifices will contribute in a large way to bringing about a better day."

The service opened with musical selections by the Colony orchestra, after which the Rev. Walter M. Michael, pastor of Centre Street Methodist church, gave the invocation. Julius E. Schindler, who acted as master of ceremonies, delivered the opening remarks.

Edward B. Fahey, worthy president of the local aerie, delivered a short address, and the Young Men's Quartet of Allegheny high school sang a hymn. Fahey was assisted in conducting ritualistic ceremonies by William H. Jenkins, past worthy president; Ralph L. Wigger, acting worthy chaplain; and Frank C. McKnight, worthy secretary.

Flowers Placed on Altar
As McKnight called the names of the deceased members, the Allegheny high school girls' chorus placed a flower on the altar for each member, and a small American flag for each of the three servicemen who died in action. Rabbi Samuel Sobel gave a prayer, and the girls' chorus sang a hymn. The benediction was given by the Rev. Father Charles W. Hogan, assistant pastor of St. Patrick's Catholic church.

Besides Sgt. Hensel, Pfc. Kelley and Pfc. Sarver, those honored at yesterday's service were Wilbur T. Giles, John D. VanPelt, George Dorn, Norman A. Bowman, Solomon Lazarus, Robert E. Hensel, Hugh T. McMahon, Joseph E. Weaver, Harry H. Gilbert, John C. McKendrick, George W. Geatz, George E. Jordan, Vernon E. Portness, Oscar Porter, W. Earl Brooks, William F. Beitzel, Joseph H. Koelker, Roy B. Rudy, Elmer V. Thompson and Thomas P. Moran.

Arrangements were in charge of Francis H. Schultz, chairman of the board of trustees. He was assisted by John H. Hager and William T. Rollins.

Pfc. Vernon Pyle, 30, Kitzmiller, son of Mrs. Laura Pyle, 15 Alta mount terrace, and husband of Mrs. Clara Pyle who lives with their two children, William and Shirley, at Elk Garden, W. Va., was slightly wounded in Belgium, according to word received from the War Department.

A former coal miner, Pfc. Pyle entered the army two years ago and was sent overseas last summer. He was hospitalized a month in England from stomach trouble, according to a letter received by his mother in December.

Two brothers are also in the service. Staff Sgt. Homer Pyle, 39, is with an MP unit in France and Pvt. Robert Pyle, 26, is stationed in New York City.

W. B. Wilson Dies Of Heart Attack
Cumberland Man Is Stricken at Potomac Edison Company Garage

Walter Bryan Wilson, 44, of 112 Seymour street, died of a heart attack at 5:30 a. m. yesterday at the Potomac Edison Company garage, North Centre street.

Mr. Wilson, who had been employed at the Celanese plant for about two years, was employed by the Potomac Edison Company on Friday and worked at the garage on Saturday. He reported there yesterday morning to learn a bus route when he was stricken.

Weatherholt Print Wins First Prize At Camera Show

Millholland Gains Honorable Mention at Hagerstown Contest

Mrs. Gladys Weatherholt, 319 Williams street, won first prize in the portrait division of the fourteenth annual Cumberland Valley Photographic Salon at the Washington County Museum of Fine Arts with her print, "Old Fashioned Gospel."

Honorable mention in the portrait division went to Randolph Millholland, 218 Washington street, for his "Senorita Cortez," a portrait of Mrs. Weatherholt.

Prize winners were announced yesterday following the opening of the exhibition to the public. The exhibit will remain open through the month of March.

Local Prints Displayed
Seventy photographs by thirty contributing photographers from local communities in three states are now on display in the museum and include prints by Mrs. Weatherholt, Millholland, John R. King, Keith T. Sisk, Joseph H. Cromwell, Charles W. Johnson, Samuel Dooley, James C. Warden and Leo Leasure, all members of the Cumberland Camera Club.

Mrs. Weatherholt, secretary of the club, said the nine local photographers submitted approximately fifty prints for the exhibition. At least one print by every local photographer is among the seventy on display. Those seventy were chosen from 145 prints submitted.

Mrs. Weatherholt's winning portrait pictures Mrs. Vivian Dorn, Cumberland, wearing an old-fashioned dress, holding a cup of chocolate and appearing as though she has just heard some spicy gossip. The print won first prize in the local camera club's contest last month.

Won Second Prize Here
Millholland's print is a portrait of Mrs. Weatherholt as a Spanish lady. It won a second prize in a local camera club contest a few months ago.

For the next three weeks the public will be allowed to cast its vote for the most popular print in the exhibit through arrangements made by the Fairchild Employees' Recreation association which is providing ballots and a ballot box at the exhibit. A cash prize is offered for the public's favorite.

Judges of the exhibit were Miss Grace Hooper, Aubrey Bodine and Edward M. Bafford, Baltimore. The public was invited to the judging of the prints last Monday night.

SECOND OAK LEAF CLUSTER AWARDED LT. LEO SIRBAUGH
AN EIGHTH AIR FORCE LIBERATOR STATION, England—First Lt. Leo Paul Sirbaugh, son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Sirbaugh, of 14 Elder street, Cumberland, Maryland, has been awarded a second Oak Leaf Cluster to the Air Medal "for meritorious achievement in accomplishing missions with distinction aerial operations over enemy occupied Europe. The courage, coolness and skill displayed by him in the face of determined opposition materially aided in the successful completion of these dangerous missions. His actions reflect great credit upon himself and the armed forces of the United States."

A pilot of a B-24 Liberator, Lt. Sirbaugh has taken part in bombing missions to Bingen, Magdeburg, Cologne and other cities. He is a member of the Four Hundred Forty-sixth Bomb Group, commanded by Col. Troy W. Crawford, of El Paso, Texas, which has completed more than 200 missions against enemy targets. A veteran group in Maj. General E. Kepner's Second Air Division, it participated in the Eighth air force's steady bombing of the principal targets in Europe—German oil industries, airplane factories and the communications systems upon which her industry and army depend. Before D-day the group included combat defenses, flying bombs, participated in drop concentrations. The group has flown more than 12,000 tons of bombs against the enemy. The same planes have also flown medical and food supplies to the people of France.

Lt. Sirbaugh entered the service July 8, 1942, and at the time was employed by the Peco-Tex, Incorporated, Newark, N. J. He received his wings at George field, Ill.

New Ready-To-Wear Women's Store Will Open Here Soon
Opening of the Debbie Shop, a women's ready-to-wear clothing store, at 82 Baltimore street, the latter part of next week was announced yesterday by Jack M. Harris, New York, proprietor of five other stores in the Carolinas and Pennsylvania.

All new fashions are being placed inside the store, Harris said, with the definite date of opening depending on arrival of materials and clothing store which was moved from 82 Baltimore street to 65 Baltimore street.

Pfc. Lester Twigg Sends Purple Heart To His Parents
Mr. and Mrs. Riley Twigg, 435 Independence street, this week received the Purple Heart and Combat Infantryman's badge recently awarded to their son, Pfc. Lester L. Twigg, 29, who was wounded in Germany where he served with the One Hundred Seventy-fifth Infantry regiment.

Pfc. Twigg wrote his parents that he was wounded by shrapnel but had left the hospital and was now in a rest camp. He did not say when or where he was wounded.

Prior to entering the service about two years ago Pfc. Twigg was employed at the Embassy theater. He has been in England, France, Holland and Germany. He has a twin brother, Dorsey Twigg, of Cumberland.

Noted Lecturer and Author Will Speak at Rotary Meeting Here

Dr. Frederick T. Wilson Will Address Rotarians Here Tomorrow

Dr. Frederick Taylor Wilson, Washington, D. C., noted author and lecturer, will address Cumberland Rotarians tomorrow at 12:15 in Central YMCA, on the subject "The Human Side of the President."

Dr. Wilson enjoys two unique distinctions, first, he probably fills more lecture engagements than any other private citizen in America. When he speaks here tomorrow it will make the seventeenth different state he has spoken in in the last six months. Second, he is one of the few persons, who visited both the birth and burial place of all the presidents that are dead.

Books written by Dr. Wilson include "Pen Pictures of the Presidents" and "Our Constitution and Its Makers," and "These Three Alone." Born on a Tennessee farm, located between the towns of Rome and Carthage, he began his public career at 12 years of age by writing for papers and speaking in schools and churches. Later in college and university he won highest honors as both writer and speaker.

Graduating from Vanderbilt university as Founder's Medalist in Oratory, he taught history in Texas, became a lawyer and member of law school faculty. In recent years he has limited his work to lecturing and writing, except for time spent as a government attorney in Washington, D. C., and Chicago. He has received the honorary degree of Doctor of Law and Doctor of Letters.

Support of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America's no-strike pledge was called for Saturday by William E. Meagher, newly elected president of the local, who asserted that he believes grievances at the Celanese plant may be settled in a peaceful manner if the new officers are given a full opportunity to work out the problems.

Pointing out that the no-strike pledge is part of the CIO war policy at the plant, he expressed the hope that even though some members of the organization are not back of it.

Meagher said that the union and company have a contract which includes a clause for the settlement of grievances and added that the union is a "responsible organization," cannot support unauthorized actions.

Says Members Irritated
Members of the local, Meagher said, have been "irritated to the point of desperation by supervision" at the plant. He expressed the hope that grievances will be taken up in the proper manner and that a "better relationship will be brought about by management choosing their supervisors from among persons who make an effort to understand the average worker."

In turn, he promises that committee members will be instructed "on the proper way to approach supervision with grievances."

The new president said he is doing his best to familiarize himself with the duties of the office and said he will make every effort to have grievances disposed of as quickly as possible.

Procedure Set Up
In his complete statement Meagher said: "The recent stoppage at the Celanese plant was declared unauthorized by myself and the Executive Board of Local 1874 on the grounds that it was in violation of the no-strike pledge of the CIO during this conflict."

"Local 1874 and the Celanese corporation negotiated a contract which includes a clause for the proper procedure in taking up a grievance."

"It is true that on many occasions members of Local 1874 have been irritated to the point of desperation by supervision, but I am hopeful that in the future the grievances will be taken up in the proper manner and that a better relationship will be brought about by management choosing their supervisors from among persons who make an effort to understand the average worker."

"We, in turn will endeavor to instruct our committee members on the proper way to approach supervision with grievances."

Lt. Robert Fink Is In Charge of Photo Outfit on Luzon
WITH ELEVENTH CORPS HEADQUARTERS ON LUZON, First Lt. Robert W. Fink, officer-in-charge of a photo interpretation team, is currently participating in the drive to liberate the people of the Philippines from the Japanese. The Eleventh corps, under the direction of Maj. Gen. Charles A. P. Hall, is now in action on the rugged, historic Bataan peninsula.

Lt. Fink, a graduate of the Virginia Military Institute, entered the army in January, 1943, with a reserve commission. Following specialized training in the states, he arrived overseas in July, 1944, and has since been action in widely scattered localities in the Pacific. Much of his work accomplished by Fink and his photo team cannot be told, but it can be said that many lives and valuable time has been saved by their work.

Prior to the war, Lt. Fink was employed as chief draftsman in charge of the engineering drafting office of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company. His wife, Mrs. Elmer Boyd Fink, resides at 501 Washington street, Cumberland. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Fink, live in Cumberland at 121 Park street.

Three Local Men Are Casualties, Relatives Learn

Pvt. John DeRosa and Pfc. Milnor Roberts Oswald Are Killed

Two local men have been killed and one has been wounded, according to casualty notifications. Pvt. John DeRosa, 27, husband of Mrs. Mary DeRosa, Ridgeley, W. Va., previously reported missing in France, is now reported killed in France, February 6.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis DeRosa, Ridgeley, he was employed as a cook at the M. and A. lunch room, Baltimore street, and the Kelly-Springfield plant before going into the service July 23. He formerly attended German's business school. A member of the Seventh army, he was sent overseas in January.

Besides his widow and parents he is survived by a son, Jack, 10; a daughter, Antoinette, 8; two brothers, Staff Sgt. Louis DeRosa, England, and Carl DeRosa, recently medically discharged, on the army; four sisters, Miss Elizabeth DeRosa, Miss Philomene DeRosa and Mrs. Pauline Reher, Ridgeley, and Mrs. Josephine Barich, Brooklyn, New York City; and a brother-in-law, First Lt. John H. Reher, France.

Pfc. Milnor Roberts Oswald, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Oswald, Roberts place, was killed in Germany February 12. He had been in the service since June and overseas since December.

A graduate of Allegheny high school where he was prominent in athletics, he was president of the Hi-Y club his senior year. A member of the Emmanuel Episcopal church, he served as an altar boy several years.

Besides his parents he is survived by two brothers, Lt. William H. Oswald, Chicago, and Thomas W. Oswald, at home; his grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth H. Oswald, and his grandfather, W. Milnor Roberts, Pfc. Olen J. Bennett, husband of Mrs. Dollie T. Bennett, 527 Columbia avenue, was wounded in the right shoulder in Germany February 16. Mrs. Bennett has received word that her husband is improving.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Turle Bennett, Cherry Grove, W. Va., he was formerly employed at the Celanese plant and entered the service in June. He was sent overseas in November and served with the infantry of the Third army.

Attorneys Ask That Receivership Petition Be Dismissed
An answer filed in circuit court Saturday by the attorneys for the Golden Russell Corporation, operating orchards and a distillery at Picardy, asked that a petition for receivership against the firm be dismissed.

The petition was filed two weeks ago by Spencer G. Russell, secretary and manager of the firm, and the Tri-State Mine and Mill Supply Company of Cumberland, as creditors. The complainants are represented by Morgan C. Harris, and the firm's attorneys are William M. Somerville and D. Lindley Sloan.

Sloan and Somerville declared the firm is not solvent, and has assets to pay all creditors in full. It was admitted in the answer that the firm owes Russell $270 in salary and $112.93 for money advanced, but the attorneys contended Russell has refused payment. It was also admitted that $121.23 is owed to the Cumberland Supply Company.

Brandy on hand at the distillery is valued at more than $25,000, the attorneys pointed out, adding that the corporation has funds to pay which include taxes and place it on the market.

In the original petition the complainants asked that the corporation be dissolved and a receiver named to turn the assets into cash and pay the creditors.

LT. C. E. M. STUMP SENDS FRIENDS JAP CURRENCY FROM THE PHILIPPINES
Souvenirs in the form of Japanese currency used in the Philippines have been sent to friends here by Lt. Charles E. M. Stump, U. S. N. R., son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Stump, Washington-Lee apartments.

The money includes a fifty, ten and one centavo note of the Japanese government which were used by the Nips to make purchases of goods and services in the Philippines.

"The currency, of course, was worthless as such but had to be accepted," Lt. Stump wrote. "Just a polite form of robbery."

Lt. Stump is gunnery officer on the U. S. S. Capromus, a vessel known as an assault (or attack) cargo ship. He is also recognition and training officer.

The former exalted ruler of the local Elks lodge was present in the original assault landings at Leyte and Lingayen Gulf and says he has a lot to tell when he returns to the "old town."

"This is a good life," he wrote, "and I don't believe I have ever been healthier in my existence."

War Strikes Are Opposed by Local 1874 President

Legion Post Plans Drive for Members

March 1 Is Set as Deadline for Intensive Canvass

With a goal of 1,000 members by March 15, Port Cumberland Post, No. 13, American Legion, is planning an intensive canvass of former members, Samuel A. Graham, membership chairman of Mountain district, announced yesterday.

Members of the post interested in boosting its membership met yesterday afternoon at the Legion home to make plans to reach the goal by the fifteenth of this month, the Legion birthday.

Graham said the post at the present time has 853 members, about 150 more than at this time last year and forty-three more than were enrolled on April 20, 1944.

Paul Weisenmiller, post membership chairman, and Russell C. Paupe, post adjutant, have prepared cards bearing the names of members of the post in 1943 and 1944 who have not paid dues for the current year.

Members of the post will use these cards in making the canvass to boost the membership to 1,000 by March 15.

Graham reported that membership in the entire Mountain district is almost 400 ahead of the figure this time a year ago.

Flags for War Map Are Stolen
Someone has stolen the American and Maryland flags that fly above the Times-News war map on North Centre street.

The flags as well as more than $50 worth of painting equipment that will be hard to replace were stolen from the automobile of Robert E. Colomy, local sign painter, who records the progress of the war on the map and posts bulletins at the map twice daily to keep the public informed of the headway the Allies are making against Germany and Japan.

Colomy parked his car on Canal street in the rear of the Times-News plant about 9 o'clock last night while he came into the building to print the evening bulletins.

When he returned to the car about half an hour later he discovered that the flags and his painting equipment had been stolen.

The flags, presented by Port Cumberland Post, No. 13, American Legion, to be flown above the war map, were obtained by Colomy Saturday evening after being laundered and were to be raised atop the map this morning.

Among the painting equipment stolen was approximately $40 worth of brushes that will be difficult, if not impossible, to replace, a pair of oil-soaked shears given to Colomy by his wife before sailing for overseas service, and gold, silver and aluminum leaf used in painting.

After posting last night's bulletins, Colomy reported the theft to police headquarters and officers are investigating.
